No decision reached at 2nd park hearing

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors declined comment after the second hearing on the DeLisle Improvement District Bill, stating a final draft of the bill was not provided.

Stephen Guice, president of Mississippi Motorsports Park Inc., stated printing and computer difficulties delayed copy delivery of the final bill draft prior to the hearing date.

Guice requested a second public hearing Tuesday, January 19, assuring supervisors that copies of the final bill would be presented for review.

Wednesday's hearing on the proposed creation of a theme park and motor speedway in central Hancock County included a presentation by Mississippi Motorsports Park, Inc.

and several protests from the audience.

Board president Mike Ladner initially reported, "We are not planning to have any more public hearings unless we have to."

Spontaneous outbursts were frequent and bitter as residents described the Diamondhead community as being squeezed between the two proposed theme park site locations.

A public outcry immediately followed, to which Ladner reversed his position and assured those present another opportunity for input would be provided.

Motorsports Park has requested board support of the DeLisle Improvement District Bill for the creation of a 15,000-acre America's Park. America's Park will contain a theme park; a $60 million speedway, comparable to Florida's Daytona; a botanical garden; and future plans for an audio/visual studio and technical school.

The remaining 5,000 acres are to be situated in the DeLisle, Harrison County community.

During the December 17 hearing, board attorney Gerald Gex presented a map of the Chapter I students meet four mornings a week with volunteer classmates to review homework, study for tests and seek help in problem areas before the school day begins. There are 30-50 students presently taking advantage of the program. Chapter I teacher Pat Bien stated, "The program appears to be succeeding because children listen to children more readily than an adult." Bien added, volunteers from the community are needed to assist and direct the children. Anyone with a free half-hour in the mornings should call 467-0444. (Echo staff photo by Jacqui Cochran)

Sand source good

Supervisors wait to hear BMR and Corps of Engineers opinions on location

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
Investigations have revealed good sand and lots of it close to Hancock County shores.

Sand Beach Renourishment Project engineer Bill Mitchell will report to the Board of Supervisors tomorrow, as to the Bureau of Marine Resources (BMR) and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers opinions concerning the newly found sand source location.

Mitchell presented samples Thursday during a workshop session.

Random samples were taken in waters 700 to 1,700 feet from shore between St. Charles Street and Bay Oaks Drive in Bay St. Louis. Two additional samples were taken 1,500 to 2,100 feet from the shoreline fronting Buccaneer State Park.

Mitchell said, the sand is apparently plentiful and appears to run along the shoreline in an increasing southwest angle.

The problem is that the waters the sand would be dredged from are three to four feet deep, increasing concern for the safety of swimmers.

Mitchell explained, though it is unlikely that anyone would walk out from shore as far as

Planning Commission rejects Camp Onward zoning request

BY LIZ HAAS
The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission rejected a request for special exception zoning of the Camp Onward property in Bay St. Louis Wednesday at a public hearing.

The application was made by Dr. Mark Maneval and Dr. Mary Ann Adam-Maneval of Hattiesburg who wanted the property zoned for use as a summer sports youth camp and winter adult retreat center.

Les Fillingame, chairman, said the commission has not received any request for an appeal from the Manevals on the decision.

"As far as we're concerned, it's a dead issue," he said.

According to Neil Frisbie, realtor for the property, the Manevals are going to sit back for a while and evaluate what they want to do.

"They have not given up hope on trying to get something worked out," said Frisbie.

According to Fillingame, the special exception would allow a use of a property in a zoned area not allowed otherwise.

The Manevals presented a more detailed plan as requested by the commission at the 7:30 p.m. meeting at Bay Catholic Elementary, the second hearing on the matter.

According to Fillingame, "It would have been too complex to enforce the strict restrictions we would have had to place on them to the satisfaction of the people in the residential area."

"Almost everyone present was opposed to it," said Fillingame.

Bay St. Louis purges municipal voter rolls

BY LIZ HAAS
The City of Bay St. Louis is sending out letters and returnable information cards to 7,500 registered voters in an attempt to clean the voter rolls for the elections in May.

The city wants to identify people and correct any misinformation they may have on record.

The cards with all the information the city has on the voter and a place for citizens to enter any corrections should be filled out and returned to the city as soon as possible.

They may be dropped in the night deposit at City Hall, mailed to the city or sent with utility bills.

The city asks if any card is delivered to a household where the addressee no longer resides, the current resident send it back and let the city know if he has any knowledge of whether the person has moved or is deceased.

"We ask that people give us as much information as they can and as quickly as they can," said Kay Johnson, municipal clerk.

The city will compile the information and present it to the election commissioners, who have the authority to purge the records of any incorrect information.

"We are asking for a lot of help from the citizens, to make them aware and realize how important this is," said Johnson.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

What do we really mean?

Stand outside the main doors of a church, and you are said to be in front of the church.

Step inside those main doors, and, beyond the vestibule, you are said to be standing in the back of the church.

Proceed forward through the body of the church until you are near the sanctuary, and you are said to be in front.

Continue into the sacristy and out a door to the outside directly behind the sanctuary, and you are said to be situated back of the church.

Then, how can we make any sense when we complain that too many people like to sit in the back of the church?

But churches are not the only buildings with this problem. Picture yourself standing before an auditorium or hall. You are standing in front of it until you enter, and then you are standing in back of the facility until you walk to the front.

Of course, if you continue past the front to the outside, you are once more said to be standing back of the building.

Apparently, we have more than a slight problem making up our minds as to labels, designations and terms, and what we want them to mean at any given time, place and location.

In the same breath as we ask someone, "What's up?" we want to know "What's going down?"

About as many people say they are going to "turn the air conditioner down" as say they are going to turn it "up," and, in both cases, they mean to make it colder.

To make matters worse, none of the above expressions are slang. They are more or less standard turns of phrases. Once we get into figures of speech, meanings get more ambiguous.

Lazy we are and very nonchalant in coining and applying phrases and meanings. The same indifference with which we refer to the back and front of the church betrays us when we attempt to communicate in the delicate areas of life.

It doesn't matter much whether we confuse the outside front of a church with its inside front, because it has no significant practical consequences.

However, it does matter when we operate with this same unconcern about meaning in communicating with the various people in our lives. It makes a difference because communication and intimacy become easy casualties.

Many of our biggest, sometimes bitterest, arguments occur because we are not talking about the same thing or issue, even though we are using the same words.

"I didn't know that's what you meant!" is often the lame excuse at the conclusion of hours of heat without light.

The Achilles' heel of communication is this very laziness which blocks us from pursuing exactly what is meant before we plunge into an issue, a point of disagreement or a scathing criticism of what has been said.

I am sure that most people experience the same things which I experience every day in my efforts to communicate. Time after time, someone comments on or criticizes the words I have said, but not what I meant.

In some cases, it is obvious that I am not careful enough in crafting my words and sentences. In other cases, the other person is evidently careless in hearing me out. Whatever, we must remember that the best assurance is 'good will' to all.

Priority Air

Air emergency transport offers lifesaving ICU equipment

As part of a 24-year mutual aid agreement with area fire and rescue departments, NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center recently hosted a two-day seminar to demonstrate the availability of a new emergency air medical service.

Based at Northshore Hospital in Slidell, La., Priority Air can now provide Stennis Space Center and local emergency response teams with the capability of transporting a medical emergency, by helicopter, to anywhere within a 150-mile radius of New Orleans.

"We wanted Stennis Space Center as well as local area personnel to be made aware that this service exists and how it operates," said James Webber, chief of fire protection at SSC. Emergency personnel representing 23 agencies in Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River counties in Mississippi attended the seminar at SSC. Demonstrations were given on setting up a landing zone, preparing and loading a patient for flight, and the overall capabilities of the aircraft.

The Priority Air helicopter is a Bell 222 SP twin-engine aircraft capable of traveling up to 170 mph (274 kph) with a range of 300 miles (483 kilometers) without refueling.

It is a flying intensive care unit equipped with a full range of state-of-the-art life support equipment. In operation seven days per week, the Priority Air helicopter can be airborne within minutes of a request for service.

"This air transport service will assist us in getting a serious trauma patient to a hospital by cutting our response time from 30 minutes to approximately 12 or 15 minutes," said Webber.

Webber went on to note that many rescue teams in rural areas are isolated and have a difficult time getting to a hospital. This type service to get seriously injured to a hospital is an important first hour when the chances for survival are the greatest.

The mutual aid agreement is an ongoing effort between NASA and local fire rescue teams to provide mutual assistance in the event of an emergency or disaster.

Last year, NASA dispatched personnel, fire equipment and ambulances on approximately 47 calls from area emergency service departments requesting Stennis Space Center participation.

Harvest Time founder featured February 7

Special to the Echo
Edmond James of Huntsville, Ala., will speak Feb. 7 at the morning service of Harvest Time Church.

James, the founder of Harvest Time, moved to Alabama several years ago to found Harvest Time Huntsville after having served as pastor of the Pass Christian church.

The service, which starts at 10:30 a.m., is open to the public. The church is located north of Pass Christian on Kiln-DeLisle Road, two miles north of Interstate 10 at Exit 20.

Harvest Time, a non-denominational church, no longer holds Sunday evening services so that families may spend time together after the morning service, the Rev. Wynn Denning, pastor, said. However, the church is starting two home study groups.

One will begin Friday, Feb. 5 at the home of Dennis and Rosie Harvey in Diamondhead, and the other will start Monday, Feb. 8 in the home of James and Mandy Arce in Bay St. Louis. Both meetings start at 7 p.m. For more information, call the church at 255-2097, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Sand beach bids must be rejected

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Sand Beach Renourishment Project contract bids will be rejected and readvertised in anticipation of project specification changes due to the location of a new sand source.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors attorney Gerald Gex stated Thursday during a workshop session the possibility of excluding a bidder demands readvertisement whether the new location is approved or not.

Project engineer Bill Mitchell notified all known bidding contractors of the possibility of design changes and the anticipated delay of tomorrow's scheduled bid openings.

Gex reported the legal requirement following a phone conversation with the state Attorney General's office.

Gex estimated the next earliest possible date for opening of bids will be March 15.

Mitchell said, the late start means beach renourishment work will take place during summer months and interfere sectionally with use of the beach.

A sand source along the Hancock County shoreline was discovered accidentally Friday, January 22, while waters were being tested for location of the project pipeline to the Henderson Point, Harrison County, sand site.

Should the Hancock County shoreline source be used, Mitchell estimates a substantial savings, which could then be applied for project expansion.

Mitchell is to report on Bureau of Marine Resources and U.S. Corps of Engineers opinions concern source proximity to shoreline.

Zoning

The 19-acre Camp Onward property was previously used as a summer camp for underprivileged children, in which the United Way and private donors contributed money as sponsors. It lost the special exception because it has not been operating under such use for over six months.

"The Manevals had to request for the zoning change because in order for the zoning use to be carried over to another owner, the property must have been operating under such zoning use within the past six months," said Fillingame.

"The property had already reverted back to its original zoning, which is beachfront," he said.

He said the nature of the camp would change from one that was previously charitable to a commercial use and any alterations and/or additions to the property would have to receive additional approval.

"It was too complicated an issue to set up special exception in that area," said Fillingame. The property, located at 972 S. Beach Boulevard and extending northwest to Railroad Avenue, is owned by Kingsley House Group of New Orleans. It has been listed for the past two years by Coldwell Banker-Nell Frisbie Realtors.

The property contains a main house, caretaker's cottage, pool, pool house, bathhouses, four 16-bed cabins and a lodge with a commercial kitchen.

Hearing

Hancock area he claimed was described within the first pages of the bill.

The area extended from Bayou LaCrosse to Texas Flat Road, and Jourdan River to the Stennis Space Center buffer zone with a three-foot strip running along I-10 east into Harrison County. Spontaneous outbursts were frequent and bitter as residents described the Diamondhead community as being squeezed between the two proposed theme park site locations.

The only audience member to speak positively was called down by audience members after stating, "I have been waiting for economic development...be receptive, nobody knows what's happening yet."

Questions from specifics in the bill's authority to general county authority over any development were raised.

One man received applause when he summarized, "A lot of people here in this room have spent a lot of money and their lives for a lifestyle they can appreciate. That is why they went to Hancock County and surrounding areas, to get into country living...and I can tell from being in (law) enforcement all my life when I am being jacked around. I'm telling you, we are being jacked around."

Guice and Murray Keel (USAF Colonel, retired), vice-chairman of the America's Park project, were repeatedly disrupted while attempting to respond to questions.

The meeting concluded with Ladner assuring residents upon delivery of the final bill draft, copies will be made available for public view and time allowed for review, prior to the calling of another public hearing.

Guice reported a public hearing held Tuesday in Harrison County was receptive to the proposal to develop in the DeLisle community.

Truck scrapes bus

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

An accident occurred Wednesday afternoon involving a pickup truck and a Bay-Waveland Municipal School District mini-bus at the intersection of St. Francis and St. John streets.

Bay Police Lt. Dave Sellier said, "The operator of the 1985 Ford pickup was Agnel Moran Sr., and driver of the bus was Mrs. Darlene Sanders. There were no students on the bus at the time of the accident."

"Moran was traveling north on St. John and passed the stop sign, scraped the side of the bus which was traveling west on St. Francis and his truck then struck a utility pole across the street," Sellier added.

"There were front end damages to the truck."

Sellier said the accident was handled by Patrol Sgt. Dave Parker and it is still under investigation.

the proposed dredging would take place, should someone do so and suddenly step into the drop-off there exists the danger of a drowning.

District 3 supervisor Howard Lizana described, after a time silt covers the area where the drop off exists; should someone fall, stepping into the silt, he could become lodged in the soft mud-like substance, unable to resurface.

Board attorney Gerald Gex said, liability could be safeguarded through the expenditure of $20,000, to $30,000 on three rows of signs, explicitly warning bathers of the danger. He also recommended the sand be withdrawn from the Bay St. Louis location rather than the more frequently used Buccaneer Park area.

Mitchell proposed additional monies be spent to pay the dredging company to create a gradual decline when removing the sand.

"A decline of one foot for every five feet of distance is created when dredging," he stated. "I suggest a decline of one foot for every 10 feet."

Should the sand be useable, Mitchell estimates the savings in pipeline costs will nearly double the scope of the actual project.

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The third annual area College and Career Night will be held Tuesday, 5:30 to 8, at Hancock High.

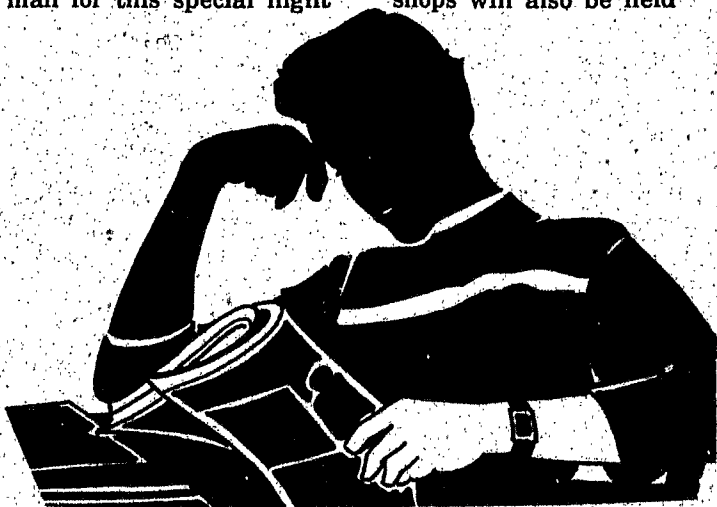

The school is located on Stennis Drive off Highway 603.

John Kolodziej of Sverdrup Technology Inc., John C. Stennis Space Center, is general chairman for this special night able for student conferences, Kolodziej reported.

"This is not just a program for seniors and their parents. It would be very beneficial to the younger students in helping them select the necessary high school courses to prepare for college," Kolodziej stated.

Two financial aid workshops will also be held for our youth. The College and Career Night is sponsored by Bay High, Coast Episcopal, Hancock High, Our Lady Academy, Pass Christian High and St. Stanislaus. Representatives from more than 40 colleges and universities will be avail-during the evening. Something special this year will be a drawing for a $200 Savings Bond for a lucky student. The bond is donated by Casino Magic, Bay St. Louis, and the drawing will be held at 8 p.m. The winner must be present.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Attention! All area school students and their parents.

The annual area College and Career Night sponsored by Bay High, Coast Episcopal, Hancock High, Our Lady Academy, Pass Christian High and St. Stanislaus will be held Tuesday night.

The College and Career Night will be from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Hancock High, Stennis Drive off Highway 603.

John Kolodziej, general chairman for this special student night, reports the program is not only for seniors, but all students and also recommends parents to attend, if possible.

It is always good for a student to begin making preparations for college by taking the proper subjects in the earlier grades.

On Tuesday night, Kolodziej said, there will be representatives from more than 40 colleges and universities available for student conferences.

A special this year will be two financial workshops during the evening for students and parents.

If ever there is a conference parents should attend with their children, it will be the College and Career Night. This special night can make a very important impact on a student for the rest of his or her life.

There will also be a drawing for a $200 Savings Bond by participating students. The Savings Bond will be donated by Casino Majic.

The drawing will be at 8 p.m., and the winner must be present.

I hope to see you and your children on Tuesday night at the College and Career Night.

It is good to hear how the City of Bay St. Louis is in the process of cleaning up the voter rolls.

I understand there are some 7,500 registered voters on the rolls, and the population was reported to be 8,063 for the 1990 Census.

I know the city has grown during the past two years, but I wonder if there is enough growth to realize some 7,500 people of voting age.

A large percentage of our population is below the age of 18. In case you have doubts, count the number of students at our schools.

Kay Johnson, municipal clerk, is sending post cards out and is hoping these will be filled out and returned. If you receive a card and it is in someone else's name who no longer resides at that residence, please return it with whatever information you may have on the person.

The city will compile the information and turn it over to the election commissioners to review.

It is a touchy situation to purge voter rolls, but there comes a time when it has to be done, and I feel Bay St. Louis is long past due.

Letters Welcome

The Sea Coast Echo welcomes comments from its readers on subjects of general interest. Letters must be signed and include address or phone number so that the sender can be contacted by the newspaper if necessary. Letters should be brief, preferably typewritten and double spaced, and conform to standards of good taste.

Letters of thanks, expressions of appreciation and political endorsements are considered inappropriate for the Letters to the Editor columns.

Job training task force recommends establishing work force council

Governor Kirk Fordice and other state government and business leaders will push legislation that will lead to a more efficient and cost effective job training system for the state, the governor announced.

The legislation is the result of six months of work by the Governor's Job Training 2000 task force.

"I am extremely pleased with the final product of this task force," remarked Fordice. "We must have training systems which are responsive to the needs of workers, business and industry if the United States and Mississippi are to compete globally in the next decade."

The legislation provides for the establishment of the Mississippi Quality Workforce Council which would serve as the state's single advisory and review board for all job training programs.

The creation of the council would foster the elimination of training duplication and increase coordination of programs and dollars.

The council would be comprised of 19 appointed and six voting ex-officio members.

"Council members will represent business and industry, labor, education and government agencies involved in job training," said Jimmy Heidel, MDECD executive director. "This structure continues the private-public partnership begun with the task force in working toward a better job training system for our state."

In August 1992, Governor Fordice appointed the 33-member

Job Training 2000 Task Force to begin the restructuring of Mississippi's employment and job training systems. The 33-member group consists of government, business, education, and labor leaders.

"To remain competitive in economic and industrial development, Mississippi must have quick response and flexibility to serve workforce training needs as they occur in the State," said Harry Martin, chairman of Job Training 2000 Task Force and president of the Community Development Foundation in Tupelo.

It was the Governor's desire for the task force to be private sector driven and thus be very conscious of what type of job training system would be best for Mississippi.

Numerous studies at both the federal and state levels reveal that vocational education and job training programs lack sufficient coordination resulting in duplication of efforts and inadequate accountability.

The state's current job training system includes some five major state agencies and 42 separate programs that are providing job-related or worker training programs.

The task force was charged by the governor with examining the current systems and recommending a strategy for restructuring the programs for increased effectiveness and efficiency. The legislation that would create the Mississippi Quality Workforce Council is the culmination of its efforts.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FROM THE STATE AUDITOR

MUNICIPALITIES

Q May a municipal utility system provide free service to a public school located within the municipal limits?

A Yes. (§21-27-27)

Q How may a municipality finance the purchase of a fire truck?

A (1) Issue bonds (§21-33-301(1)), (2) Issue notes (§17-21-51), (3) Lease purchase (§31-7-13(e))

Q Who in a municipality has the authority to declare an emergency (§31-7-1(i)) situation for purchase procedure purposes?

A The board or council, or its designee (§31-7-13(k))

Q Where must a mayor send the municipality's audit reports and transmittal letter?

A Office if the State Auditor, 3750 I-55 North Frontage Road, Jackson, MS 39211.

Q What is the recommended procedure for providing public notice of the annual audit?

A Publish a statement of substance and availability and post the actual audit, as provided by Section 21-17-19.

Q How must a municipality dispose of lost and abandoned property?

A Through the public notices and procedures outlined in Section 21-39-21.

GENERAL

Q May a county hospital use magnetic signs to mark its publicly owned or leased vehicles?

A No. The markings must be painted; a permanent decal may be used in lieu of paint. (§25-1-87)

Q Must an employee covered under the state retirement system retire at age 70?

A No. That provision has been deleted from Section 25-11-11.

Q Is it proper for county depositories to deduct check printing costs from the accounts of the various county offices?

A No printed checks are commodities that must be purchased through the county centralized purchasing system, which requires requisitions, purchase orders and receiving reports. (§31-7-101)

Q Must chancery clerks subscribe to and file a county newspaper in their offices?

A Yes, with the expense paid by the county. (§9-5-167)

Q When should a publication for bids to keep county funds be authorized by the board of supervisors?

A At the regular December meeting in each year. (§27-105-305)

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Mississippi Democrats are vying for positions in Washington

With Bill Clinton now in the White House and Mike Espy in charge of the sprawling U.S. Department of Agriculture, a lot of expectant Mississippi Democrats are faxing their resumes to Washington to get in on the spoils which they hope will come after 12 lean years.

You've already heard about the FOBs (Friends of Bill) who turned up by the thousands in Little Rock and around the country after the Clinton victory and during the pre-inaugural preparations.

Now in Mississippi, we're about to have battalions of FOBs (Friends of Mike) eager to make their willingness known to their old buddy, newly installed Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy, that they will accept a spot on the federal payroll under his patronage.

The guessing game of who will get which choice federal job in the Clinton Administration had already become a popular winter sport in Mississippi even before the inauguration. But it has picked up intensity since last week, and particularly since Espy got his cabinet slot.

Last Saturday when Espy had a "welcome home" press conference on the front steps of the courthouse in Yazoo City, a dozen job hopefuls showed up in the crowd. From all indications there are many more FOBs who have high expectations of getting patronage jobs out of Espy.

Espy may have put a damper on any idea that he is going to have a free hand in dishing out patronage. He confirmed that the Clinton Administration will hand him names from which he must make recommendations to fill 10 positions in what Administration has declared the "top tier" jobs.

Below the top tier jobs, Espy said he expected to have considerable leverage in naming his own choices as long as they meet Administration standards for diversity and qualifications.

The top job in Mississippi under the Secretary of Agriculture's control—state director of the Farmers Home Administration—apparently has already been locked in by Espy. It will go to Norris Faust, a 41-year-old white farmer and county supervisor from Quitman County, who was the first white farmer in the Delta to openly support Espy when he initially ran for Congress in 1986.

Apparently there is a scramble for another choice spot under Agriculture, that of regional director (for Miss., Ark. and La.) of the Rural Development Commission, now based in Vicksburg. Among those in the hunt are state Democratic Party vice-chairman Wilson Golden, former state Sen. Ken Harper of Vicksburg and David Crews, press secretary during Gov. William Winter's administration.

Well-known state political figure Ed Pittman, now a justice on the state Supreme Court, has reportedly asked Espy to give him a major job in Washington D. C., that of inspector-general in the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Some believe Pittman, who once hired Espy as his assistant Secretary of State, is attempting to cash in an I.O.U.

Judicial patronage under the newly-inaugurated Clinton Administration is the prize plum a lot of people, especially the legal profession, are watching closely. At stake immediately is a seat on the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, plus the U.S. attorneyship for Southern Mississippi, and likely soon, the U.S. attorney for Northern Mississippi.

Former Gov. Winter who was co-chairman for the Clinton campaign in Mississippi, is evidently the point man for the Clinton Administration in picking a judiciary nominating committee for the state. But Winter has upset several key Clinton backers by putting his son-in-law, attorney Guy Gillespie of Oxford, and several close friends on the committee.

Some sources claim that former Gov. Bill Allain, who as Mississippi's attorney general in the late 1970s developed friendly ties with the Arkansas AG, some other than Bill Clinton, has been sounded out by the Clinton people about taking the Southern District U.S. Attorney job.

If Allain, now in his mid-60s doesn't, say these sources, the next bid will go to Atty. Gen. Mike Moore, who wants it. This greatly alarms most state Democrats, however, because if it happened, Gov. Kirk Fordice would appoint his own choice to fill Moore's seat.

Also on the short list for the U.S. Attorney job is the son of a longtime former occupant of that spot, Robert M. Hauberg Jr. of Jackson. A strong bid is also being made by Harrison County District Attorney Conco Caranna.

Supreme Court Justice Ed Pittman, mentioned above as now an aspirant for a job with Espy, had also flirted with trying for the U.S. Attorney job, but he is now said out of the picture.

What is a Chamber?

What is a Chamber of Commerce? What does it actually do? What does that mean to you and me as businessmen, residents, or tourists? What benefits can I derive from a Chamber of Commerce?

A Chamber of Commerce has been defined as "people working together to make their community a better place to live and work."

A Chamber of Commerce is an action agency designed to meet the needs of the community. It is a voluntary organization of individuals and businesses who band together to advance the commercial, financial, industrial and civic interests of the community. It is a civic clearinghouse, a public relations counselor, a legislative representative at the local, state and national levels of government, an information bureau and a research and promotion medium.

The variety of a Chamber of Commerce's activities is virtually unlimited, depending upon the community needs and the desire and ability of the Chamber to meet those needs. Its overall mission is community betterment.

A Chamber of Commerce is financed on a voluntary basis, with individuals and businesses paying annual membership fees to invest in the present and future of the community's welfare.

For information on how you can become a member of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce, call the Chamber office at 467-9048 and invest in your future!

Mardi Gras

up to the week of the parade. Entry forms may be picked up at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce office in Bay St. Louis or at the Waveland Drug Store on Coleman Avenue in Waveland.

There will be three reviewing stands: one for the City of Bay St. Louis across the street from the Post Office, one for the City of Waveland between Old Spanish Trail and Nicholson Avenue and one for Nereid's in the parking lot in front of Markel Industries.

Prizes will be given for first and second place Mardi Gras floats, first and second place business sponsored floats and first and second place neighborhood floats.

The judging will take place before the parade starts between noon and 1 p.m. and plaques will be presented from the Nereid's reviewing stand as the winners pass.

Judges are Roy Aultman, president, Bay Little Theatre; Laurie Byrd, director of plays at the Bay Little Theatre; and Linda Von Antz, English teacher.

In the event of rain, the parade will be rescheduled for Mardi Gras Day at a time that does not conflict with the Krewe of Real People and Camelot parade.

KREWE OF DIAMONDHEAD

The Krewe of Diamondhead will parade on February 20, at 2 p.m. starting at the Diamondhead Community Center parading up to Gex Drive and turning on to County Road up to the Country Club where there will be a party.

"We're expecting to have about 50 to 60 units, that includes marching groups, floats, golf carts, horse units and walking groups," said Hilda Bourg.

The reviewing stand will be at the country club.

The parade marshal is Jeff Larson of WLOX-Channel 13 and the captain is Benny Mistrretta.

King Ali'i Honua XVIII is Paul Snemry of Diamondhead. His queen is Gisela Rainey of Diamondhead.

Prizes will be awarded after the parade for best overall, first and place best marching group, first and second place best float, and first and second place best cart.

The St. Paul Carnival Association sponsors the Pass parade and the king and queen are awarded to the team who raises the most money.

Running for king and queen are Winky Yarborough and Barbara Swilley

Anyone wishing to enter the parade can contact parade lieutenant, Chris Arnos, at 255-7297. The deadline to enter is Friday, February 19.

ST. PAUL CARNIVAL ASSOCIATION

Pass Christian revelers can be seen parading on February 21, at 1 p.m. to the theme, "Mystical, Magical Places."

All units will line up at Handy Street and the starting point for the parade is on Davis Avenue. The parade will go to Seenic and hit Highway 90, then go up Henderson and make the block at Second Street and back to Davis Avenue to the staging area.

Two reviewing stands will be in front of City Hall, one for St. Paul Carnival Association and the other for the city.

The parade is limiting the number of units to 75 and the deadline for entering is February 5.

for team one and Davis Harrison and Glenda Gregory for team two.

The money raised will be counted on February 8, and the second place winners will be the grand duke and duchess of the parade.

Parade marshal is Frank P. Wittman, III and grand marshal is Mike Reader of WLOX-Channel 13.

KREWE OF KAMEHAMEHA

The Krewe of Kamehameha, the Diamondhead Boater's Association parade, will hold their parade on February 21.

The theme is "The Golden Age of TV."

Boaters will start at the Diamondhead Marina at 3 p.m. and parade out into Paradise Bayou.

King Akua Kai XIX is Robert Wood of Diamondhead. His queen is Lee Fredian of Diamondhead. The commodore is Don Marshall.

KREWE OF REAL PEOPLE

The Krewe of Real People and the newly organized Krewe of Camelot will parade together on Mardi Gras day at 11 a.m. "We are working together to make this a successful day in Hancock County," said Charles Johnson, Krewe of Real People captain.

Both krewes will depart from the Kmart parking lot and descend Highway 90 to the beach road. They will proceed down the beach to Main Street and go up Main Street to Dunbar Avenue.

From Dunbar, they will go back up the Highway to Blue Meadow Road and conclude at Casino Magic where there will be a party.

"The reason that we like this route is because it brings this parade into contact with the most businesses," said Hester Plaque.

The reviewing stand for county and city officials from Bay St. Louis and Waveland will be on the front lawn of the county courthouse.

The krewes will have between 30 and 50 units combined.

The Krewe of Real People, in its twelfth year, will be parading to the theme of "Hearts and Soul."

At Shower's of WLOX-Channel 13 will be the grand marshal.

The deadline for entering with Real People is February 15, and interested parties should contact Johnson at 467-8482.

The king and queen will be announced at the Krewe of Real People ball on February 13. Geraldine Lang will be honored at the ball in acknowledgement of the works she has done for the community.

The deadline for entering with the Krewe of Camelot is February 15. Call 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 to enter.

There will be a drawing for king and queen of Camelot in which anyone may enter at Casino Magic.

The grand marshal is Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Farve.

Paul named Student Affairs VP at USM

Dr. Joseph S. Paul was named vice president of student affairs at the University of Southern Mississippi after serving in several other student-oriented administrative posts at USM for more than 16 years.

The state College Board, at its regular monthly meeting in Jackson, approved USM President Aubrey Lucas's recommendation that Paul fill the vacant vice presidency created by the retirement of Dr. Peter Durkee, who had served as the university's top student affairs administrator for more than 25 years.

"Since this vice presidency is responsible for the quality of the out-of-class life of our students, it is critically important that we have a leader with vision, energy and ability," said Lucas. "We are very fortunate to have on our staff someone who can assume leadership for the Division of Student Affairs."

Paul, 39, a Bay St. Louis native, was elevated from his position as USM dean of student development and assistant vice president for student affairs, a job he had held since 1984. Earlier in his career, he served USM as an assistant to Durkee, and as assistant director of the R. C. Cook University Union and Student Activities.

"The University of Southern Mississippi has a long heritage of being student centered," said Paul, who earned a doctorate in higher education administration from the University of Alabama in 1985 and who holds faculty rank at USM as an assistant professor in the College of Education and Psychology.

"We must hold ourselves accountable to students and their families as the consumers they are," he added. "But more importantly, we must respect and value them both individually and collectively, as they are our future."

As dean of student development, Paul has had administrative responsibility for all student life programs—including residence life, food service, organizations, Greek life, student discipline, campus security, minority student development, yearbook and university union activities. He also had special division-wide responsibility for the budget process.

The 1971 Bay High School graduate earned a bachelor of science degree in communication and political science from USM in 1975, graduating Magna Cum Laude, and received a master of science degree in communication and management from USM in 1978. He has served as a consultant to Fortune 500 companies and has appeared on NBC-TV's Today Show.

Paul was named Outstanding Young Professional by the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators in 1978; was named the state's Outstanding Young Mississippian in 1981; and was designated the Most Outstanding Doctoral Student in Administration of Higher Education at the University of Alabama in 1985.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Paul of Bay St. Louis.

American Association of Retired Persons

Mississippi's AARP with more than 285,000 members represents the interests of all senior citizens and their families. This year Mississippi's AARP is supporting a proposal that will help our government be more open and accountable to the public. That proposal is for lobbying law reform.

AARP has joined with a broad coalition of groups concerned about good government to push for lobbying law reform because it believes citizens have the right to know who is spending what on whom in order to influence the outcome of legislation and regulations.

Current lobbying requirements permit lobbyists to concentrate their efforts on only a few individuals within the legislative and executive branches of government and block many efforts to make the changes Mississippi needs to grow and prosper.

Lobbying law reform will do two things.
—Clearly define who is a lobbyist and what is lobbying, and —Require full reporting of lobbyists' spending and on which public officials the money was spent.

"I urge all AARP members in Mississippi to acquaint themselves with this issue, and let their legislators know of our support. I also urge citizens throughout Mississippi to join us to bring more sunshine and fairness back to Jackson," said state director Mary Dillard.

In addition to the displays, the show is an opportunity for collectors to buy, sell, or trade stamps, to add to their collections, or to hunt for items not readily available locally. Admission is free.

Gulf Coast Stamp Club

The Gulf Coast Stamp Club will meet Saturday, Feb. 6 at the Knights of Columbus Hall on East Water Street (south of the Main Post Office) in Biloxi. APS Circuits will be reviewed.

For further information call 388-2354 or 863-7770.

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club met at the Community Center on Jan. 20 with Bette Flood and Rose Rybiski as hostesses. Brierley Acker, president, announced new members of the organizations are Lois Anderson, Terri Downie, Dot Van Norman and Pat Shambra.

The date of the flower show has been changed to Wednesday, April 14 with the Mini Flower Show workshop to remain on March 17. Johnnie Boatright is the chairman of the flower show. Theme of the flower show will be "By the Sea."

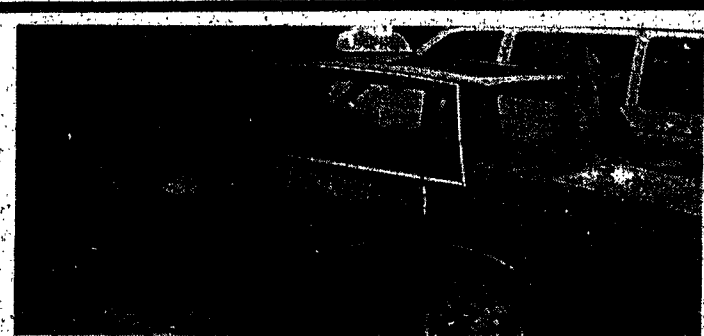

Horticulture hints of the month were given by Gerri Garberg. She suggested planning for freezes by placing plastic garbage bags over the plants, but remembering to remove them before they are exposed to heat or sunlight.

Plants should be watered before a freeze but never when the plant is frozen. Garberg said this is a good time for transplanting, except for hibiscus, banana and dogwood.

Jean Eakin, a past winner of the Deep South award for the blue bird program, talked about the 50 blue bird houses the club will place on the fairways of the golf course by Feb. 1 in selected locations in order to help lower the 90 percent decline in the blue bird population in the last 40-50 years because of their loss of habitat.

Volunteers to help with the blue bird program include Nancy Yarbrough, Muriel McCoy, Doris Hope, Carol Eckrich, Margie Deegan, Carol Bustetter and Pat Zatarain.

At the February meeting, Rose Marie Smith from 'Coastliner' will take the group on an 'armchair' trip to the Ave Maria Grotto in Alabama and the Calloway Gardens in Georgia.

He's Got the Whole World...

PSA. 121:2
My help cometh from the LORD, which made heaven and earth.

Isn't it wonderful to know that there is an infinite wisdom in God that far exceeds the wisdom of man?

He truly has the whole world in His hands.
Worship God this week with your family

Planning a new home?

Extension Service, Coast Electric offer free seminar on home building

Mississippi State Cooperative Extension Service and Coast Electric Power Association are expecting a large turnout for their joint home planning seminar. The two-day workshop is scheduled for Feb. 10 and 17 and is open to the public.

The seminar offers practical information for anyone planning to build a home in the near future.

Home planning professionals from across the state will be on hand to offer valuable information on financing, energy savings, site preparation, selecting a contractor, kitchen planning, interior design, lighting and landscaping.

Program participants will receive a working notebook on the subjects covered in the seminar. The seminar and notebook are free.

The meetings will be from 7 to 9 p.m. and will be held in Coast Electric's meeting room. Seating is limited.

To register, call Extension Home Economist Darlene Underwood at 467-5456.

Building your home will probably be the single largest investment you'll ever make. The home planning seminar will give you tools to make the right decisions in making your dream home a reality.

Refreshments will be provided and door prize will be awarded.

Listed below is a brief overview of the topics to be discussed on each day of the seminar:

(Feb. 10)

—Financing and Home Construction, presented by Jan Lukens, area consumer money management specialist, Coast

Research and Extension Center.

—Site Selection and Home Construction, presented by Dr. Jack Carroll and Dr. Ron Walker, extension specialists, Mississippi State Cooperative Extension Service.

—The Good Cents Home, presented by William Stechmann, marketing specialist, Coast Electric Power Association.

Second-day Session (Feb. 17)

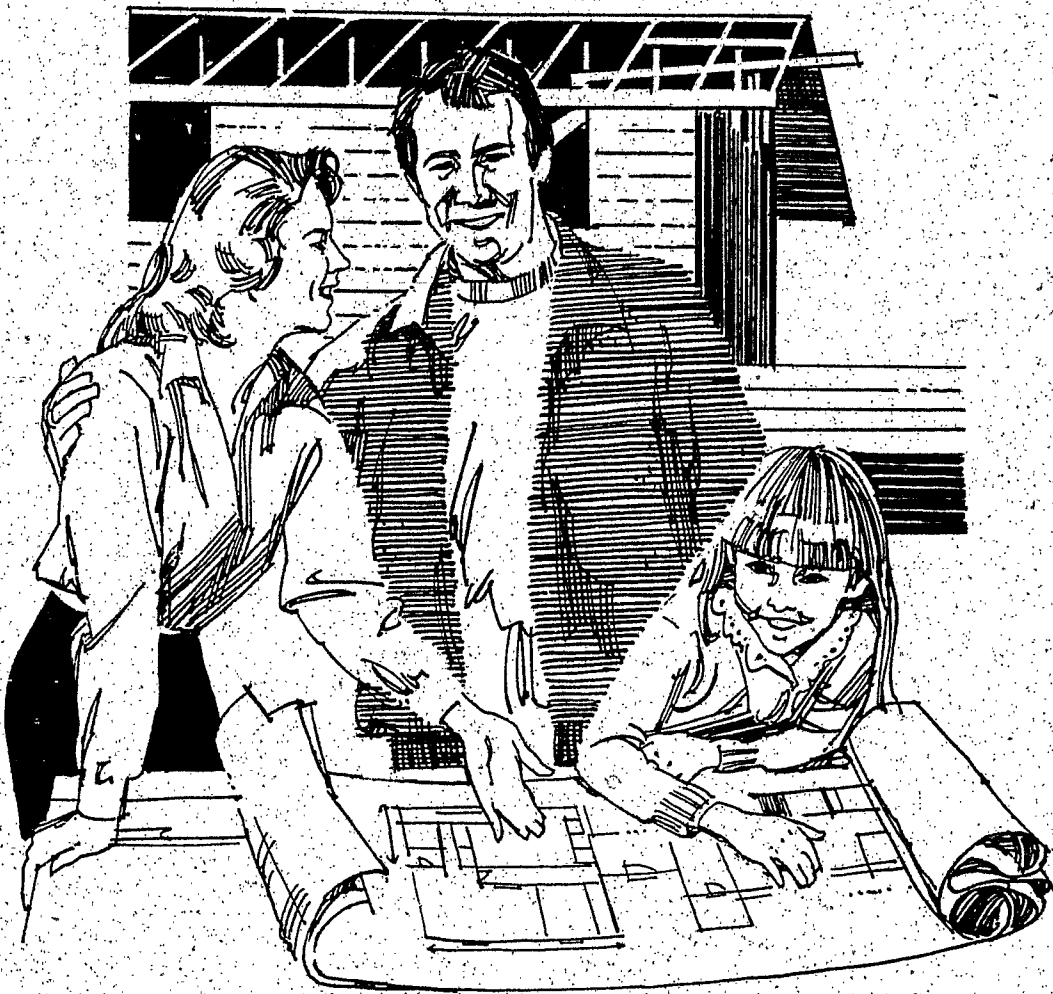

—Selecting a contractor, presented by Nancy Freeman, extension home economist, Harrison County.

—Kitchen Basics and Appliances, presented by Shirley Wiltshire, extension home economist, Pearl River County.

—Interior Design and Lighting, presented by Darlene Underwood, extension home economist, Hancock County.

—Landscaping, presented by John Davis, area horticulturist, Mississippi State Cooperative Extension Service, Harrison County.

Bay Catholic celebrates Catholic Schools Week

Special to the Echo
Bay Catholic Elementary's "good news" about Catholic schools celebrates the choice made by parents, students and staff to join the Bay Catholic "family," noted Principal Ann Allen, as the school kicks off Catholic Schools Week Sunday, Jan. 31.

The nationwide Catholic Schools Week campaign will be marked at Bay Catholic with festivities honoring the staff and parent volunteers, an open house, and a variety show presented by parents for the students.

The variety show, dubbed

"School Daze," featured acts ranging from musical numbers

The Good News in Education to dance, from magic to pizza tossing. "School Daze" is slated for Friday, Feb. 5, which is known as Student Appreciation Day.

Earlier in the week, Bay Catholic has scheduled open house days for Monday and Tuesday. Parents of prospective new students are invited to visit and tour the school between the hours of 9 and 11 a.m. and 1 and 2:30 p.m. on these days. Parents will be available to answer questions.

Registration for new students entering grades Pre-K (3- and 4-year-olds) through grade 6 also takes place this week. PTO volunteers will honor the Bay Catholic faculty and staff with a special luncheon

Wednesday on Teacher Appreciation Day. Parents' contributions will be recognized Thursday on Parent Appreciation Day.

Bay Catholic students performance on standardized tests is consistently above average, she added, while the school has earned accreditation by the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges, as well as the highest State accreditation level available at this time.

ARTIN' ABOUT

Bay Area Chorale seeks additional male tenors

Tenors needed

The newly formed Bay Area Chorale has issued a call for additional male tenor soloists and chorus members.

The Chorale's first production in late March will be Handel's Messiah, accompanied by the Jefferson Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dennis Assaf.

For additional information, call Joy Mehrtens, 452-3539 or Curtis Stout, 255-5571.

Luncheon theatre

The Gulf Coast Opera Theatre, in conjunction with the Opera Salon, will host a Sunday Afternoon Luncheon Theatre on Feb. 7 at the Broadwater Beach Hotel Crown Room.

Lunch will be served at 1 p.m.; the program begins at 2:30. "Mississippi Sound," a singing and dancing troupe from Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College-Perkinston Campus, will present a 30-minute Broadway Musical Revue. Also performing will be "Soundwaves," a barber shop quartet. Tickets are $15 and are available at the Arts Council (864-4000) in Gulfport or by calling 875-0438.

NOMA to close

The New Orleans Museum of Art will be closed to the public through February 5, to allow for the installation of two major photography exhibitions. The exhibitions "Bon Temps Rouler: Mardi Gras Photographs by Syndey Byrd" and "Between Home and Heaven: Contemporary American Landscape Photography" will open at the Museum February 6, and remain on display until March 21.

Louisiana residents will have the opportunity to view these and other exhibitions free in 1993, from 10 a.m. to noon each Thursday.

For more information, call the NOMA at 488-2631.

Submissions to Artin' About should be sent to The Sea Coast Echo, P.O. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520. Notices will be edited and published on a space-available basis.

Free 'Eating Light' class offered Friday

The Hancock County Cooperative Extension Service has a free 1 1/2 hour class, "Eating Light." The class will be taught Friday, Feb. 5 at 9:30 a.m. in the Hancock County Human Services Complex, Bay St. Louis. Nancy Freeman, Harrison County Extension Home Economist, will help participants examine label reading, modifying recipes, seasoning with herbs, and "light" meal preparation techniques. Programs presented by the Cooperative Extension Service are open and free to all interested individuals. For more information, call 467-5456.

Kolodziej: HHS policies deficient

BY LIZ HAAS

John Kolodziej, volunteer physics instructor at Hancock High School, told school board members Tuesday the present exam exemption policy encourages mediocrity.

The policy, geared to improve school attendance, states students in grades 7 to 12 may be exempt from any examination in a class where they have at least a C grade point average, no more than two days absences prior to the day of the exam and a mastery of 90 percent of basic course skill requirements.

The policy, approved by the school board, has been in effect for two years.

Sverdrup adopted the school four years ago and company employees teach the physics class.

"I'm completely against the exemption policy," he said.

He stated, allow it in the incourt of the executive director (Lorenzo Creighton), Section 89 of the Gaming Control Act.

"However, there is another section that refers to the criteri a to be used in sports betting, that says you can't do anything for any type of gaming off pre-mises, and until they correct those two things they are not going to allow the sports bet."

Rafferty added, "It would take an amending of the statute to take action on complaints about the excessive barking of her dogs.

The board heard complaints from a neighbor, Gloria Hayden, at the previous meeting about excessive barking from Kneale told the board that she put up a $1,000, six-foot fence and keeps her dogs inside as much as possible, but her neighbor still complains.

"I will put up hedges and another fence when it is affordable for me," said Kneale.

Kneale had letters signed by all of her neighbors in the general vicinity stating they did not have a problem with her dogs.

"I was robbed before and lost a lot of precious things, so I got the dogs for my protection and for the protection of my belongings," she said.

Hayden previously signed an affidavit, which was the only measure she could take to put the ordinance into effect, and the matter will go to court today.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL
Mayor Stella Frilot, who was not present, wrote a letter to the board in reference to the City Hall Annex Building used by the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The board previously imposed a $25 charge per month in order to comply with space available.

Frilot suggested the city charge 10 percent of the gross revenues generated by the use of the building or $25 per month, whichever is greater. She also said it should be required that the tenant provide evidence of liability insurance, which they have not done.

She recommended St. Vincent de Paul Society be granted the use of space.

There was discussion on whether the society could be covered on the city's policy. Board attorney, Lucien Gex, was authorized to check the city's policy to see if they could be covered.

The board approved to allow St. Vincent de Paul Society the use of the building with the stipulation that they must present the board with proof of some liability insurance, whether it be the city's or their own.
